

CEO's Review

I am very honoured and grateful for being appointed CEO of Lamor Group. I am very well familiar with Lamor, the personnel and some of the major clients because I have been running the Lamor Production Company, Lamor Technics Ltd., since it was spun-off from Lamor Corporation in 2006.

In 2010, I will take a more active role in Sales and I look forward to meeting partners, customers and friends of both Lamor and Slickbar.

We begin this New Year 2010 with dual logos, Lamor and Slickbar side by side, signifying the merger of two pioneering market leaders within the oil spill response industry. This represents another important landmark in our evolution; we have come a long way since Slickbar developed the first oil containment boom in 1960 and Lamor manufactured and exported its first brush skimmer in 1988.

Lamor acquired Slickbar in the end of 2008, and during 2009 we were able to realize the global synergies this brought both companies. The accomplishments and evolution of oil spill response equipment and vessels over the past 50 years have truly been amazing and the combination of Lamor and Slickbar is creating an all new outlook for the future, especially with creative new solutions. We are extremely proud of Slickbar Products Corporation being the oldest manufacturer of oil spill response equipment around the world, and that is why we decided to keep the Slickbar brand side by side with the Lamor brand. In 2010, we will celebrate Slickbar's 50th anniversary; we plan to have several opportunities to show our pride in various shows around the world starting at Spillcon International Oil Spill Response Conference in Melbourne, Australia in April 12-16.

On November 10, Lamor Corporation was awarded Norden's Profile Award and I had the privilege to accept this prestigious Nordic award. Norden is the Nordic name for the North European region consisting of Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden, and the three autonomous regions of the Aland Islands, the Faroe Islands and Greenland. Norden has a population of approximately 23 million people. The Norden Associations are the oldest organizations for promoting Nordic co-operation in all fields, and lately especially environmental issues and the Baltic Sea have received a lot of attention. The Norden's Profile Award was a recognition and reward to our longterm, important and visible co-operation within oil spill response with our neighbouring Nordic countries as well as with the Baltic countries and Russia.

From now on, Lamor will stronger than ever before focus on strategic product development and further expand within oil spill response sales. Despite the global recession, we have been able to keep our sales volumes during the past year. In 2010, we expect to be back on the growth track. Being the market leader in oil spill response is not only thanks to our unrivalled product range and superior products, but a big thank you goes out to our very committed and hard working personnel around the world, as well as to our loyal customers and long-term partners.

Yours sincerely,

Kent Björklund
